

FOOTED STAND AGAINST BOLSHIEVISM

WOMAN MOYER ASSAILS
"BIG BILL" HAYWOOD.

International Labor Conference is Opposed to Industrial Workers of World.

Tenn., Nov. 14.—Bolshevism is given the official stamp of organized labor by the vote of the international labor conference in session here, with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in the chair. The conference was further to decide the delegates of labor of the American nations, whose movements have not enjoyed the progress of the labor in the United States. They, too, must abandon the old and lawless actions of the past and strive for permanent, constructive and successful results.

A dramatic part of the meeting, which was held in the flat-footed stand of the conference against bolshevism in its forms, occurred when Mrs. M. Moyer, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a fiery denunciation of her former husband, as a disorganizing, ungrateful force in the labor movement. He particularly attacked the American miners against Haywood.

Haywood is Moyer—Charles H. Moyer. "I am that Moyer who is the shadow of death to the labor movement," he said. "I know that I have been told by the American Federation of Labor that I am a traitor. My organization is dead. On his death, I have been told the federation for the labor movement is dead. Haywood is alive—in prison. He is richly merited. From the day he was set free, he has been working against the federation, to which he owes his life, and against organized society and the best interests of workingmen. I warn you against him and his propaganda." The discussion followed provoked largely by a resolution introduced by Mexican delegates, which they later admitted was intended to indict I. W. W.'s. After a heated debate, lasting hours, a vote was taken referring the matter to the American Federation of Labor for action and voicing the position of the conference as definitely and unalterably opposed to the aims of the Industrial Workers of the World.

In this vote the majority of the Mexican delegates joined, expressing their faith in the American labor organization.

MEN FIRST DEMOBILIZED

Development Battalions Mustered Out At Once.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Men of the development battalions will be first units of the army demobilized, Secretary Baker announced today. There are about 50,000 men now in these battalions and they will be mustered out as soon as they have given the necessary physical examinations.

NAILS RED TABLECLOTH TO ROOF AMID CHEERS

BELGIAN CAPITAL FREED OF HUN SOLDIERS.

Some German Officers Strip
Insignia From Uniforms of Own Volition.

Brussels, Wednesday, Nov. 13.—(A. P.)—There is no organized authority yet in Brussels, but with comparative calm and dignity, the Belgian capital awaits the coming of the armies of liberation.

On Sunday three delegates from the "republic of Brussels" arrived at Brussels. Standing on a balcony, the military commander of the city addressed a crowd of 3,000 soldiers and civilians.

"Three million Germans have been killed during the war," he said. "That is sufficient. Let us have peace."

Gen. Von Falkenhayn, the German general-in-chief, received the delegates, and in the meantime French and Belgian soldiers addressed the crowd. Then a sailor climbed up to the balcony and nailed a red tablecloth to the railing amid cheers.

Terms of Agreement.
After an interview of an hour with the delegates Gen. Von Falkenhayn reappeared and announced that he had resigned and had accepted the delegates' terms. These were:

First, immediate peace; second, that telegrams be sent to the front instructing the soldiers to return to Germany; third, that no orders be given without the assent of the soldiers' committee; fourth, that all units from division to company shall elect representatives to the soldiers' committee.

Some Sullen and Depressed.
The governor-general asked that the Germans depart peacefully and respect life and property. German officers then of their own volition began to strip the insignia from their uniforms. Some of them, however, were sullen and depressed.

A letter had been received from Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, who was at Bingen on the Rhine. It was read to the crowd. It said: "I am glad to hear that the German soldiers are regaining their freedom. I am glad to hear that the German soldiers are regaining their freedom. I am glad to hear that the German soldiers are regaining their freedom."

Fired Into Crowd.
Some soldiers then entered the park, which had been closed to the public four years. They smashed the marble slabs surrounding the beautiful ponds, broke their guns and threw the gun barrels into the water. They then formed a procession and singing the "Marseillaise," paraded through the city behind the red flag.

The only bloodshed in Brussels occurred on Monday, when a patrol of the German soldiers fired into a crowd of Belgians. The patrol was fired upon by a group of Belgians, and the result was the death of one Belgian and the wounding of several others.

WITH PEACE IN VIEW
(By Lillian Vermylye)

Victory has come, and we have shouted our triumph. That moment of wild hilarity is passed, and the time has come for us to put this question to ourselves, soberly and seriously: What are we going to do to help build this new era?

The great purpose of this war is by no means accomplished. Our victory with arms is but the first phase which has removed a great obstacle. Those who went forth to meet that horde, and fell as they turned their backs, gave their lives for a civilization. There was the supreme sacrifice, and they placed the noble cause for which they died in glory. We alone are left to glorify this sacrifice, not by words of praise, or idle boasts, but by deeds of righteousness. Let our minds and hands be noble enough to fashion this trust into a thing of great beauty. We are left to be the guards and keepers of their gallant deeds, and the ideas for which they fought.

When we think of our duty as keepers of civilization and builders of a new era, we must not let our minds carry us afar. Our greatest duty lies nearest to us. We must not lift our eyes above the little things in search of the great. We should first look into our own hearts and see what is there. Everywhere we turn we see some good that we can do; we do not have to go out of our homes or communities, or away from our daily associations to render this aid. We do not have to "go out into the world" to help it. We have but to ennoble and enrich our own lives by cleaning our hearts and minds, and by seeking to fill our lives with those things that are good, and be very careful of our influence over our associates. When our being is permeated with these things the eyes of our soul will see the vision in a purer light and our ability will be stronger. No matter what our profession is, be it of the humblest or of the highest, we can make all the world respect it if we put our noblest efforts into it, and strip it of graft, greed and selfish ambition. I think our president had all these things in mind when he said to us: "We must have peace to win the world by earning it. We must have peace to win the world by earning it. We must have peace to win the world by earning it."

If we fill our country with disorder and chaos at such a time, we rob our light of its luster and belittle ourselves in their sight. We cannot expect that sincere peace will be found in the chaos of disorder. It has been said that the worth of a state, in the long run, is the worth of the individuals composing it. Let us not be false to our present peace by proving our sterling worth as individuals and citizens.

And show our appreciation of our great president by our conduct. We have earned the esteem of the world, and now it is up to us to keep it. Herein lies the test of our strength. The peace which we desire is not a peace of the allied cause have lifted the yoke of the oppressed and given them freedom, and are now ready to bear the burden of the world's peace. This freedom by setting a more standard. When they come to know us better and understand us, they must not find us wanting.

After all, the civilization of the world is so young it is hardly more than a thin veneer, but let us hope that the last remnant of savagery has been swept away. The peace of the nation are open; the peoples of the world will go sweeping on into that splendid era which is the hope of our future. But in order to have a lasting peace and a higher civilization we must work earnestly and steadfastly together at this critical time. This is our solemn duty to our dead.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Under Proposed Plan United States Will Be Compelled to Revise Constitution.

Washington, Nov. 15.—If the United States is to enter a league of nations when the peace treaty is signed, it will be compelled to revise its constitution. Senator Polk declared today in the senate, in opposing the league of nations idea, in the senate this afternoon. The backers of the league of nations assert that the ultimate control in regard to war and peace shall rest with the league. Polk declared: "Under our constitution, the control of these matters rests with the government of the United States. Take from the government and give it to a league of nations, and you have set aside the constitution whether you do it nominally, or not," he declared.

"It is lamentable," Polk declared, "that a nation that has taken so small a part in winning the war should attempt to dictate the peace terms to the nations who have borne the brunt of the struggle for four long years."

Senator Walsh, of Montana, read the league of nations speech by Lloyd George into the Record and said it indicated that the peace terms would be one of justice and right, as American people demand.

Polk criticized the south for its support of the idea of surrendering control of its international affairs to an outside body, "when it resisted with force of arms the dictation of its peace terms by the United States government fifty years ago."

"John Marshall opposed the ratification of the federal constitution on the ground that it would take from the state of Virginia some of its powers," he added, "but now you of the south are turning to the denunciation of the chamber—proposing to surrender the nation's most sacred right—that of peace or war—to an outside organization."

"However, the senator believes it was wrong that the south should have seceded," Senator Owen assumed, "he is driven logically then to the conclusion that it is right that the government should give a part of its power to an international league for the maintenance of peace."

Current Belief in Paris That He Will Attend Peace Conference.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Belief was current in diplomatic circles here today that President Wilson will come to Europe to attend the peace conference. In view of the probable impossibility for President Wilson to remain through the weeks and months of the peace conference, it is thought that he will come to Europe, the press mentions the names of Secretary of State Lansing, Secretary of War Baker, Former President Taft and Senator Lodge as United States envoys to bring the American peace delegation up to the same quota as the others.

For some time there has been much speculation as to whether the American executive, who has played such an important role during the war, would go to Europe. It is understood that he has been urged by high officials among the allied nations.

RAINBOW'S SERVICE.
(Lincoln Eyre Cable to N. Y. World.)

On our extreme left, marching day and night to catch up with the main line, the Rainbow division pursued the foe for ten miles and eventually flung him from the western part of Sedan. The old 6th New York, now the 16th, the first New York unit to get into action in this war, upheld the splendor of its past in this final series of attacks. This gallant band of the millions of soldiers Uncle Sam was to send to France, maintaining the rapid pace which the Second division had set Nov. 1, advanced to the west bank of the Meuse, leaving in its wake scores of wrecked machine guns and the bodies of those who had manned them.

The First division holds the record of the longest service in France, as the 42nd holds that for the most continuous service. Another division which is rated as a top notcher by the general staff, and by the dough boys, is the 32nd, made up of Michigan and Wisconsin national guardsmen. The division came into its final battle on the right and enemy's line from his formidable centers of resistance on the heights north of Verdun. It was the 32nd which, having shoved the enemy to the Vesle in July and August, won further laurels a few weeks later when, in a terrific offensive staged by General Mangin's 5th French army, north of Soissons, it took Juvigny and paved the way for the German withdrawal from the Chemin-des-Dames.

BIG INCREASED YIELD.
Chattooga County Shows Larger Number of Bales Ginned Than Last Year.

Lynchburg, Ga., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—According to the government crop report for Chattooga county, the total number of bales of cotton ginned up to November 1, 1918, was 5,029, this being nearly three times greater than the 1,817 crop up to the same date, only 2,440 bales having been ginned up to November 1, 1917. The cause of the heavy increase, however, is pointed out that the crop last year did not open until very late, and the greatest portion of the crop was picked in November and December and much of the staple remained in the fields until the spring of this year. The crop this year, on the other hand, has opened wonderfully well and is fully 90 per cent. gathered.

WHY GERMANY COLLAPSED

With the American army at Sedan, the British approaching Waterloo, and the whole southern frontier of Germany opened to Allied armies through the surrender of Austria, Germany was doomed when her representatives met Marshal Foch and Admiral Wemyss to agree on an armistice. As The Evening Post (New York) remarks, "Foch, the master, has played with skilled touch on the keys of a mighty organ from the North Sea to the Meuse; and in the final harmony the American Army has rung true."

Splendid Two-Page Colored Map in This Week's Number

This fine double-page map is printed in two colors and presents the "Scene of the Western Battle-Line." It shows all territory from London to the River Rhine, including all of Belgium, Luxembourg, Western Germany, and Northern France. The famous Hindenburg line as it existed before March 21, 1918, is indicated, also the line of furthest German advance this year in the big drives of March, April, May, and June, and the present line of battle where the Allied armies are driving the Germans back, including the terrain contiguous to Sedan where the American doughboys have just won one of the most brilliant victories of the war. The map is prepared with a special view to the conclusion of peace with Germany and shows all of Alsace-Lorraine, which Germany undoubtedly must surrender to France. The great fortress cities of the Rhine, which will no doubt be occupied by Allied garrisons as guarantees that Germany will pay for the damage she has done in the war, are also clearly shown. Practically all of the towns that are being liberated by the victorious Allies' advance and which are mentioned from day to day in the press dispatches are clearly visualized. This map is so valuable as to be well worthy of preservation for present and future consultation.
